Dear Mrs Meagher,

I'm going to let you go & rest, but first want to give you the attached stuff ## I just sent to the local library.*

With the idea that you might be placing the Index microfilm somewhere where it might be available on request, as a paper copy... if you do this, please let either me or Mrs Hartmann know about it. A great thing would be for people to know just where it can be had, by mail, and at what specific price (including, incidentally, the 3 errata sheets which are not on the film). And whether or not postage is extra or included, & whether or not the Author need be contacted by the library, or whatever, for authorization to reproduce a copyrighted work - and all such as that including what I've not yet even thought of. In fact I just happened to think that the proper name of the department (whether in a library or anywhere else) would be nice to have, together with the zip code.

Would be nice if people wanting your Index could have it ## within just a few days. Like filling in a coupon & enclosing a check.

Thank you, please,

P. Sorensen
