Dear Paul,

Because of my father's illness, and then his death on the 15th of this month, there has been little time or inclination to work on the case. However, I have gone to the library several times to look at your microfilm. As I feared, it was not a really satisfactory procedure. Sometimes the viewer was in use; other times, I was just getting immersed in a set of documents when it was time to return to the office or to a meeting.

Much of what I did manage to scan seemed of considerable importance, either in terms of the evidence as such or of the history of the critical effort and the cooperation among critics.

I will try to resume and speed up my microfilm reading. Meanwhile, I just wanted to indicate that I do appreciate your patience. If it gets to be too drawn-out, I will perhaps buy copies of some of the material, to study at leisure.

Best regards,

Sincerely yours,
