Dear Paul,

If you think it would really be helpful, I would be quite willing to read the draft of the first section of your book. However, as I believe I warned you already, I have not been working actively on the case for quite a long time now and I am definitely rusty.

I have heard from several people that the CTIA has been dissolved. As you may know, I several times refused to accept membership—a decision I have never had cause to regret. As for Fensterwald and/or Sprague being CIA agents, it is too absurd to warrant much comment.

Did I read something recently about Dr. Alvarez, being involved in something archeological? My current reading is almost exclusively on Watergate, so I tend to be fuzzy about other news.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Meagher
