Dear Miss Meagher,

Thank you very much for your letter of February 10th and the check. I also received the articles by Harrison Salisbury and yourself which you were kind enough to send me.

As you will see by the enclosed announcement, I have had to change my own publishing plans because of the acceptance, by a British publisher, of two new books of mine on the same subject. With your permission, I shall apply the $ 30.00 you sent me to the single volume "The Case Against Lyndon B. Johnson" which I am still planning to publish myself. If this does not meet with your approval, I'll return your check, which I am still holding uncashed.

I suppose you are just as excited about the news from New Orleans as I am, even though it is being covered rather sporadically by the European press. I have a feeling that this will really break the case wide open in due course.

Don't be confused by my multiple addresses. They are a necessary precaution against too much interference. As a rule, my mail is forwarded from any of them, although every once in a while something goes haywire (as happened to the articles you had sent me). For the time being, I can best be reached again at the above address.

When is your book coming out? Wishing you every success with it, I remain, with best regards,

Sincerely yours,
