U. of Maine Dissent Channeled Through Student Government

By DOUGLAS E. KNEELAND

Special to The New York Times

ORONO, Me., May 9-The ble, concerned, involved. By all Flag is back at the top of its accounts, they are; certainly tall steel pole today, catching hundreds of them, deeply; per-

Yesterday it drooped at half down" staff in memory of the four Kent State University students keeping the school calm, the National Guardsmen at a demonstration Monday against the United States invasion of Cambodia.

tests in Washington against the Kent State killings and the war seemed far away from this drowsy town of 8,000 population in north-central Maine. It's a strong group, who, Lord University officials and student knows, don't agree with me a leaders said that only a horder! leaders said that only a handful lot of the time.' of students had left to join the march in the Capital.

almost apace on the sprawling leaders, under the insistent campus here. Four Phi Delta prodding of Stanley Cowan, a brothers blinked bleary-eyed in prodding of Stanley Cowan, a the morning sun from the steps of their old frame house, the early risers from last night's stepped down as president on Tuesday, have seized and held through limb loggering are the stepped down as president on Tuesday, have seized and held through limb-loosening exercises the reins in the antiwar moveat the athletic field, warming ment, as in almost every other up for a meet.

And yesterday, during a oneday strike that was partly ef- on this campus," Mr. Cowan fective, it was much the same, said emphatically above the even though nearly 3,000 of din of telephones and mimeo-Maine's 7,800 students crowded graph machines in a suitte of the mall in front of the Fogler senate offices overrun by stu-Library to hear speakers denounce the war and the deaths test plans. "There's just no way at Kent State.

Involvement Is Increasing

more than 500 students jammed no way in the world. We deal the Hauck Auditorium, where the Arts and Sciences faculty was meeting, a voice crackled we co-opt people sometimes, over the shortwave set in the rather than confront them." campus police headquarters, interrupting the casual converto the Agricultural Experiment condemning the Kent State Station and se if those two soil deaths and extension of the samples I took in there yester-day are ready?"

week it has been here. Maine's students are not trou-please?"

sunlight in a gentle May breeze haps 1,500 to 2,000, maybe above the old iron cannon aimed impotently at the Stillwater River from the shady front lawns of the University of Maine's campus here.

Hammer of them, deeply, perhaps 1,500 to 2,000, maybe more. It has been a week of marches and meetings, mimeographings and strike votes. But there have been no rocks thrown, no burnings, no calls to wisches to "split it." violence, no cries to "shut it

"Everything that has been But today the renewed pro-done has been legal by what-

'No Violent Element'

All the while, life continued here seem to agree. The senate issue of moment on the campus.

"There's no violent element in the world on this campus A short time later, while Orono and break things up that anyone's going to burn an very easily with the leftists-

Perhaps symbolic of the atmosphere here was an incident sation of tour of the school's that occurred while the Arts and Sciences faculty was de-'Will someone please go over bating and passing a resolution war. Dean John J. Nolde occasionally had to caution the hun-In a way, that is the sort of dreds of students present, saying, "May I ask the observers Not that more and more of to refrain from murmuring,