Dear Ted:

I spoke to the editors of Dell with regard to reprinting the backup material of the Warren Report. Their response is negative. They believe that interest in this material would be minimal and that interest could best be served by a university press publication. Also, Ted, there's just so much available attacking and defending the Warren Report that the market is really flooded. The endeavor you refer to would be for the benefit of scholars and research people mostly.

Thanks again for suggesting it to us. I'll write about your questionnaire at a later date.

Best regards.

Sincerely,

Richard W. Baron
