PERRY--

Are you going to answer this Lattimer article? WRITE LETTER TO EDITOR?

I hope you decide to do so. This guy needs to be called on some of this horseshit, only I'm too pissed off to do it.

What a huge medical motherfucker and super shit this Lattimer is...

RE: Article by Dr. John Lattimer in Resident & Staff Physician

Page 3, item 33 - Last paragraph "...The Warren Commission, itself had not been permitted to see" (the x-rays and photographs). Horseshit. The Warren Commission did not insist on seeing this material. Had they insisted, who would doubt they could have seen these exhibits? They didn't want to loose their innocense.

Page 34, bottom column 1 - so what if Lattimer owns Oswald's rifle score book? Note: Lattimer worked at Parkland Hospital.

Page 35, column 1 - "Dr. Lattimer was able to make 41 such fragments out of the two grain samples of bullet in question." If he split these ~~in~~ in half he could make 82 and again 164 - what is the = point here?

column 2 - Did Helpern help Lattimer or not?

column 2, bottom - fatuous statement. Lattimer, whether he knows it or not refutes the Commission and the S.B.T.

Page 36, column 1, figure 2 - Archives requested no tracings be made. The angle Lattimer has in figure 2 is 57° assuming body is upright. This means Lattimer would have you believe JFK was shot from a helicopter.

column 2 -A - coat bunching is rediculous. The shirt and coat would not bunch the same way. The shirt was tailored and buttoned tightly around his neck. This shows hole in body does not match hole in clothing. These clothing and body back holes are phoney and were made without reference to each other.

column 2-C - horseshit: high speed bullet?

Page 37 - smelly language here - "Metal could be seen in the upper area of the bullet track." What bullet track? 1968 Panel Doctors mention metal here also.

column 1, E&F - brusing of lung could just as well have occurred when someone retrieved bullet from the body.

column 1, G - horseshit! Didn't Wecht comment on this?

column 1, K - so wh at if blood stain extends downward? Was JFK shot while hanging upside down?

Page 38, Figure 4 caption - If ~~Kattimer's~~ Lattimer's drawing, or his old ladies drawing of the coat bunching is accurate, then let me be the first to kiss his ass. Any bunching as shown in photo on page 39 would produce two holes in the coat and two holes in the shirt (if the shirt bunched in the same way, which I doubt.)

column 1 bottom - "The doctors had no way of knowing..." that's a whole pile of horseshit. Greer had the clothes. Adm. Berkeley was there - was Kellerman and they all knew about the tracheostomy. Why didn't they say anything? That has escaped this ding-a-ling.

Page 39, bottom column 1 - horsepiss! The newsmen didn't overhear the doctors. The doctor's held a press conference at Parkland Hospital, and said they thought he was shot from the front.

column 2 - Three skull fragments were packed up in the street? That's horseshit and bullshit. One piece was found in the limousine at the White House garage.

Page 40, top column 1 - Lattimer can see this - skull piece flying in frame 313? That's horseshit twice removed.

middle column 1 - if Lattimer would bother, he could get a transcript of Finck's testimony. He quotes Finck as if it were hearsay.

bottom column 1 and top of column 2 - this is double horseshit plus bullshit. The Warren Commission did not publish everything they saw automatically.

column 2 - "were turned over to the FBI". That's 40 year old bullshit. It is horseshit to say the Kennedy family had this stuff till 1966. The S.S. had them until 1966. Inspector Kelley must have sold Lattimer this truck load of goat manure.

column 2 - '68 Panel report was not widely reproduced in newspapers. Exerpts were.

column 2 - If Connally's and the motorcycle cops were hit, what does that prove Lattimer? Drawing permitted courtesy of Life Magazine? What is that? Next it will be thoughts courtesy of the Secret Service.

page 42, column 1, A - wound entry is very high as shown figure 7, and seems to agree with the 1968 Panel report. I would have to agree with Lattimer and '68 Panel if this is how they see it, 10 cm. above occipital protuberance.

Lattimer shows head at #313 to be tilted too far down. If trajectory is flat diagram would be more accurate.

page 42, column 2-B-'68 Panel saw this also. This smells fishy. 6.5 diameter ~~xxxxxxx~~ fragment embedded in margin of wound entrance?

column 2, D,E,F - here Lattimer draws shapes of skull pieces. Is this useful Perry? Does piece D resemble the piece drawn on Boswell's head ~~xxxx~~ sketch?

Page 44 - bottom column 1 - Warren Commission had correct angle of approximately 17° downward flight path. Lattimer shows an incredible 57° angle that rules out a Connally hit by the same bullet. This doesn't seem to bother Lattimer a bit. The poor fool.

Page 44, column 2 bottom - he spends only one day!

item 6 - note, he left one one other possibility for sources of the shots!

Page 45, bottom - he gets good here. We ought to thank him for mentioning this.

column 2 middle - "It was noted, however, that on none of the lists were there any photographs of the bruise on the pleura...even though... described by Commander Humes." Really?

Next paragraph is speculative horseshit!

Column 2 bottom - exact measurement can be made on a photograph, if you have all necessary data.

Page 48, column 1 - "it was compatible with a 6.5 mm bullet wound..." or a 5.6 or a 7.5. Compatible?

column 1, bottom - note how low on neck Lattimer places the wound.

column 2, middle - how can this jerk presume to know the trajectory as depicted in Figure 1 since this drawing does not show position of figure in relation to street or limousine. "...tissues at the back of his neck were more prominent than those of most people..." What does Lattimer mean? This is horseshit!

Page 49, column 2 - "a graze of the tip of the transverse process of the seventh cervical vertebra could not be excluded." Could not be excluded? What a chickenshit way to say nothing.

Page 50, bottom column 1 - "...at the lower edge of the collar, through both jacket and lining..." I thought this was a control piece taken by FBI for tests. Lattimer says it went through coat and lining. What is this?

bottom column 2 - does Frazier say this was how he took control swatch?

column 1 - "to the question...been expected to notice" This is some kind of world record pile or horse manure.

column 1 bottom - "to the question..." man, what a pile of dung.
column 2 top - Is he real?

column 2 - "to the question, were the locations of the..." Just wrap all this bullshit together it looks just fine to Dr. Lattimer.

column 2 - position of head wound at back of skull. Why can't this ~~xxxx~~ horses ass measure the wounds distance from the top of the head - the apex of the skull? 10 cm above the occipital tuberosity (occipital protuberance?) is good enough I suppose.

page 53, top column 1 - "a few centimeter of missing..." That's a wound high on the back of the skull all right.

bottom column 1 - clearly seen? Bullshit!

top paragraph, column 2 - unmetigated horseshit mixed with bullshit. Oswald's very powerful ammo. That's incredible dog shit.

middle column 2 - Humes and Boswell did not see x-rays when they wrote their autopsy report. This is pure horseshit!

page 56 column 1 middle - Lattimer says President was struck by a very high powered rifle bullet (rather than some other less powerful type of bullet such as from a pistol). To call a 6.5 cal rifle very high-powered is horseshit. I suppose a 357. or a 45 or 38 cal close range pistol shot is a low-power weapon. What kind of ape shit is this.

column 1 bottom - "6.5 mm rounded fragment stuck on the sharp margin of the bone at the wound of entry..." What kind of bullshit is this? How can this happen? The bullet goes 2000 FPS and then a portion gets stuck right at the point of impact? What horseshit! This must be a plant! Panel doctors also see this. This smells.

column 2 middle - fragments embedded in flap suggest front shot also!

page 57 - doesn't Lattimer know that both CE469 and 567 were found on the front seat of the limousine?

page 57, middle column 1 - th at ~~xxxx~~ cerebellar tissue was missing is not a rumor. Parkland doctors say so in their report. Lattimer hasn't ready these reports I guess. What a butt head!

column 2 middle - "...the likelihood that an intact bullet..." Horseshit - bullets often do this according to pathologists I have read.

page 59, bottom column 1 - Lattimer's explanation for 3mm object near first scral segment is fine grade cowshit.

Page 59, bottom column 1 - what s this? "While it was the correct diameter for a lead shot, it did not appear dense enough for this." My, My, what have we here? He makes it sound like this is not a ~~xxx~~ bullet but rather some object a messy surgeon left in some previous operation.

bottom column 2 - how could they duck out of view of a person in the sixth floor of the T.S.B.D.? That's bullshit.

Page 60, column 1 - how can this shit head watch the z film and come up with a description like this?

column 2 - Greer accelerated the car and caused the President (ONLY) to fly backwards. That's double bullshit.

Lattimer thinks 313 proves his case.

bottom column 2 - now the butt head says it would be okay to let qualified researchers look at the x-rays.

Page 61, top - first paragraph. What horseshit. JFK was dead.

Page 63, middle column 1 - "with a spastic lurch." If that's a nureomuscular reaction, I'll kiss his ass.

column 2, last paragraph - this nitwit thinks he is supporting the Warren Commission!
