Dear Bill— —

My warm thanks for your letter and for your very generous words about Accessories. I had had much apprehension, before the book was published, about the writing style—fearing it was turgid and monotonous. What you say is very reassuring. You must know that despite differences of view, I value your verdict on the book very greatly. Indeed, I can only count myself fortunate beyond words for the unstinting encouragement and the extravagant comments on the book from so many of our friends and colleagues. I am deeply grateful, Bill.

Always,

Sylvia
