Dear Miss Meagher:

We are suffering through a period of austerity here, and we find ourselves already over-committed to scholarly works closely related to the University's own interests. For this reason we are obliged to decline the opportunity of considering your index on the Kennedy assassination, with thanks for your having thought of us as a possible publisher.

I compliment your energy in tackling such a difficult task, and wish you the best of luck with it.

Sincerely yours,

W. B. Harvey
