Dear Miss Meagher:

In response to your letter of June 27th, I regret to advise you that there is no further information I can give you in regard to the questions which you set forth in your letter of June 15th. It might be that if you would write to the Archivist, the National Archives, Washington, D. C., he would advise you as to whether the papers you wish to examine are now available to the public.

Very truly yours,

Executive Secretary
to the Chief Justice.
