

Penn called yesterday. He had talked to Maggie (and was about to call Vince); he is pretty angry and I don't blame him. My calmness so far has to do with my not yet having read the article! I could write an interesting little study on Schiller and Lewis myself if I had to. Schiller called himself "James Bond" and Lewis made me promise to lock up all my dogs (except the baby Chihuahua) before he would even get out of the car. All the while sitting in the Rambler dressed like an English gentleman and ~~smoking~~ puffing a pipe. Ah, well.

It will all fade away in nine days. And your point hit the nail on the head: we are obviously causing someone discomfort or they wouldn't bother to attack us.

How was the contact with Mama? Penn says she is on her way to Europe. Is this right? Please let me know. Much love
Shirley
