

Dear Margaret,

Good to hear from you again, and thanks for the clipping from the Dallas Times-Herald. How unfortunate that your mother is ill. At that age, even minor injuries are incapacitating.
I hope she continues her progress.

It is encouraging that despite the best efforts of the propaganda mills and the weight of many prestigious names, the average person simply does not believe the W.R. Great scepticism is apparent also in literature, fiction and non-fiction, from time to time.

That jackass Garrison has set us back by years, by his antics, but even so I feel sure that the case will surface again, sooner or later. As for Clappa-quiddick — a pickening exertion of power, wealth, and influence, yet here too it will be, I think, a life-long stigma to Ted Kennedy. Please stay in touch.
 Sylvia
