

100 Hilldale Drive
Wicksburg, Mississippi
39180
April 8, 1974

Sylvia Meagher
302 West 122 Street
New York, N.Y. 10014

Dear Ms. Meagher,

I was sorry to hear that you had no spare copies of Accessories After the Fact. Since I never had the $76 to afford the Hearings & Exhibits of the Warren Commission, I doubt as I'll be needing the Index. What I would find useful would be an index or a list of all the books on the Kennedy assassination, mainly critical works on the Warren Report's investigation. At this point in time I have both of Mark Lane's books, Edward Epstein's Inquest, Buchanan's Who Killed Kennedy?, Weisberg's first Whitewash, Jim Garrison's Heritage of Stone, Peter Noyes Legacy of Doubt. And of course the New York Times edition of the Warren report.

Is there a comprehensive list of volumes on the assassination? If you know of one, I would greatly appreciate a copy, so that I can check off what remains to be collected. I think Congressman Kupferman entered such a list into the Congressional Record, but I'm not sure. Thank you anyway.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Spell

P.S. What did you think of the recent flick, Executive Action? I've read mixed reviews ("mixed reviews" "good and lousy" - George S. Kaufman) of the thing, though I haven't seen it. I have read the paperback book of same name. The Freed and Lane conspiracy involves... "Texas oil to Chicago organized crime, top politicians, high-level CIA agents, think tank experts, Harvard crisis managers...". I detect the influences of Mae Brussel and Jim Garrison here - after all, any one of those gangs would have been enough.

No further reply sent - only one to a customer