Dear Sylvia,

Please forgive the brevity of this note, but, despite being much pressed for time at this moment, I wished to let you know that the galley proofs were finally sent to me, I have completed them, and they are again in editorial, and, we may assume, production, hands. As S&D has reaffirmed its desire to have the book out as soon as possible, in addition to my urging that haste in the material being dispatched to you, same should be arriving reasonably soon. As we discussed, I leave in your hands how to accomplish the task, depending on your own often very heavy schedule.

I do hope your health continues to improve and that you have had an opportunity to get out a little on a few of the recent halcyon days.

As Ever,
