Oh, yes, I simply sent off a copy of your letter to Maggie. You were so much more eloquent than I could have been.

Dear Sylvia:

Thanks so much for your letter—and your understanding, a quality in about asply among many I know.

What a nuisance I am! Here is Maggie Field's address, which I forgot to include in my note to you.

(Maybe I wanted to get your reaction first, which I'm sure, she'd love to hear from you, I'm sure.)

24, Rue des Boccards
75 008 Paris, France.

Maybe you've already found from her! I get so bogged down in manuscript deadlines, my personal alone get ~~intended~~ for weeks.
