

11 December 1979

Dear Carl, Jeff, and AIB associates,

I was saddened to read your farewell message in this, the last issue of CLANDESTINE AMERICA. I understand your decision and I think it is a wise one. You each have much to contribute, in talent, energy, and brainpower, and there are many areas in which you can put your attributes to good use. For the moment, and perhaps for some time to come, the JFK case will seemingly be quiescent.

This is, then, a time for me to express the gratification I have felt in working with you and exchanging information and opinion. Of all the groups which have functioned at one time or another, I think the AIB has done the most effective and positive work and made the most meaningful contribution. Certainly the quality of CLANDESTINE AMERICA has been outstanding, in both substantive and literary terms, and I will miss it very much.

I would like to pay tribute to your achievement and to express my personal affection and regard, at this turning point, and to wish you each and all the very best of good fortune and success in your future activities. I hope that we will stay in touch.

With gratitude and friendship,

Yours very sincerely,

Sylvia Meagher
