Dear Sylvia,

Enclosed is the Durham Morning Herald version of the story. The DMH is a very conservative paper -- I'm surprised it ran at all. The managing editor told me that he was not sorry to see Pres. Kennedy go, though he thought the way in which he died was unfortunate. I still haven't seen what the S.F. Examiner did with the story. There is no telling what they did with the article I phoned in. It appears that In These Times may run another version.

It is interesting to note that the NYTs edited out the luncheon between Warren and Hoover which occurred the day before Hoover's testimony before the Commission. The things that happen to trim an article down to 900 words ...?

Thanks for your help,

Alex
