Dear Sylvia:

Here is the proposed text for the second part of the two-part series of articles concerning the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, written for American History Illustrated magazine.

Based upon interviews and upon readings of various written sources, the piece tries to set forth some of the controversies and complexities that continue to surround the tragic event.

I ask for whatever comments, criticism, or corrections you might care to make as to the accuracy of this article's content. Any and all suggestions are welcome.

I have asked the following persons to read through this draft as well: Cyril Wecht, Paul Hoch, Mary Ferrell, Larry Harris, Gary Shaw, James Lesar, and Bud Fensterwald.

In the interest of expediting matters, I plan to call you in a couple of days for your comments. Many thanks for your kind attention.

Best to you,

Edward Oxford

P.S. Part one is on press. A copy of the November issue, in which it appears, will reach you shortly.
