Dear Miss Meagher:

I have just finished reading your invaluable book,
Accessories After the Fact...

On one point I wonder if I have overlooked something:

On p. 358 the Irving mechanic Taylor speaks of having purchased from the putative Oswald a "Springfield Bolt Action
".30-06" rifle.

On p. 283 a bullet recovered after the attempted shooting at General Walker is described as "a 30.06."

Are these two the same caliber despite the different placement of the decimal point--and is there any connection between the two items? If pointed out in your text, I have somehow missed it.

I hope your book is being widely publicized and widely sold.

Yours truly,

Martha Millet
