

Sept. 10

Dear Mrs M -

Thank you for being so patient in awaiting the return of the enclosed bibliography! The truth of the matter is that I wrote away for another copy to send you (since I had almost worn out the copy you sent) and just now got a replacement. Anyway, here's another copy for your files.

I got the latest "minority of one" and read your article with much interest.

Thanks for the list of articles you wrote for "minority". One question: - Did you incorporate all of the material in the first seven articles (till June, '68) into your book? In other words, should I get these articles for my collection - or have I got all that material in the book?

Please tell me the context of your articles in "Studies on the Left" - Sept/Oct '66 and "Latitude" - Winter '68. Name of each will do. Also, is the material in "Studies" also used in your book? (What is the address and cost of "Studies"?)

I'm sending along an extra copy I have on "Three Patients in Portland" in case you don't already have it. Basic material...

Still working on my bibliography and will send it along when I've gotten it into better shape. Do you know of any publication that might want to print it? It's more extensive than any I've seen so far, nearly 200 items.

I now have a theory on the assassination: I think Oswald was trying to kill Connally rather than JFK. He had a long-standing grudge with Connally, dating back to the days when C. was Secretary of the Navy and Oswald was mad at being given an undesirable discharge. He wrote Connally a letter saying he would avenge his slight. (This also could explain how such a poor shot could hit so terribly a moving target.) Can this theory stand any examination?

Any chance of your getting out this way to see my collection of newspapers, records, magazines, books, etc.?

Best regards! Have you located anything new on the Assassination that I might not know about? When is your next article to appear - and where?

Sincerely -

Manuel B. Tarshish
