Dear Mrs. Meagher —

Thank you so very much for kindly responding to my letter. Your comments were very extensive and informative. They rather make me reconsider what I have previously thought regarding D.A. Garrison and his investigation. You are very convincing.

But, and there always is a "but" isn't there?, I do believe you should have waited until after Mr. Garrison had the trial (if indeed he ever does have it) before you attacked him for not being truthful and for not being honest. Your book could easily have been just as excellent without the part about Garrison.

Though I do admire your book and want to thank you for your kind reply, I do hope that Mr. Garrison is right for the possibly simple reason that it is rapidly becoming too late in the day for any one else to ever discover more facts, and he may be the last hope for all of us.

Sincerely yours

Alison Murray
