Dear Mr. Tarshish,

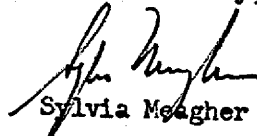

I am returning herewith the various Joesten advertisements, as I receive them direct and you need not bother sending them to me.

I am also returning your list of titles, which is close to illegible and for the safety of which I do not wish to assume responsibility.

My Subject Index has been out-of-print for the best part of two years. It is impossible to get a copy. I cannot get a copy for myself. It is true that a xerox copy would be quite expensive and I would not encourage you to make the expenditure required since you do not need it for serious research purposes.

You will pardon me, I hope, if I cannot take the time to respond to the various questions in your letter, such as what I know about Joachim Joesten or how you can get to see the Zapruder film, etc. The pressure of work is quite overwhelming and I can scarcely find the time to take care of my own research needs, much less those of the numerous persons who write to me about the differing and multitudinous aspects of the case.

Yours sincerely,

Sylvia Meagher
