

ARLINGTON NATIONAL CEMETERY
Arlington, Va.

Located near the Custis Lee Mansion and overlooking the Nation's Capital, is the grave site of John F. Kennedy, 35th President of the United States. Here burns the eternal flame which was lighted during burial services. Two of the Kennedy children are also buried here.

Dear Mrs. Meagher,

Since this card was written REK has been buried just to the left of the bushes.

I've been job-hunting in Washington for a few days, and, although it will take quite a while to actually get a government job, I'm considerably more optimistic than I was when I last wrote.

My cousin's husband, who lives in the D.C. area, is becoming a WR (writer), and, when I mentioned to him that I had met you, he asked if I could get him a copy of "Accessions." If you have any extra copies, I'd like to buy one for him. I'll get in touch after I've returned to the above address (about a week).

Sincerely,
Richard P. Edelman

P.S. - I visited the Kennedy gravesite in Arlington this morning. It's truly a magnificent setting, with a view of the Lincoln Memorial across the bridge. For a few minutes it felt like November of '63 again.
