Dear Mr. Kerby,

The critics of the Warren Commission have recently had the pleasure of saying "I told you so" to Harrison Salisbury, Max Lerner, and other ex-partisans of the Warren Report. I suspect that it is only a question of time before the other die-hards are forced to give up the ghost. Meanwhile, since they are unable to refute the facts, they will fall back on sarcasm and sneer.

Eminent men are not immune from error or corruption; and the fact that you feel distaste for the critics or some of them does not automatically disqualify their case. If and when you examine the evidence, objectively and impartially, you may come to agree that the second paragraph of your note of November 30th is only the literal truth.

Yours sincerely,
