My dear Gavzer,

After writing to the editor of the Washington Post with copy to you, I received the New Orleans Times-Picayune version of your article. This included a reference to my Subject Index which the Washington Post had omitted.

Don't you think it was somewhat discourteous and misleading to say that the Index "too, is fallible," without mentioning that I myself had commented on its imperfections on the occasion when you telephoned me and asked to borrow and xerox my personal copy of the Index?

Yours sincerely,

P.S. I hope that you will not think me immodest if I enclose a more considered commentary on the Index, written by the Editor of The American Archivist.
