Marina Moves, Still Trying To Avoid Public

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Away from the "glass house" she wanted to leave in Dallas, the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald was at home in her new house here today—still avoiding the press and public.

Tuesday was moving day for the Kenneth Jess Porters, and they were quick to tell Dallas newsmen they were happy to leave the town where, the Warren Commission says, Mrs. Porter's former husband shot and killed President John F. Kennedy and policeman J. D. Tippit.

Tippit.
"How would you like living in a glass house for all the world to see?" Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter asked Tuesday as she left Dallas.

A few hours later, she was in Greenville, population 21,000, and about 50 miles northeast of Dallas in the midst of Texas blacklands.

Marina, her three children—two by Oswald and an infant born July 3—and a woman friend drove up to the modest frame and brick home.

From across the street, Marina could be seen looking carefully over the neighborhood. Finally she alighted from the small, white sedan and started walking toward the house. A news photographer raised his amera.
