Dear Mr. Wolff:

My research is completed, and I am now in the process of writing the various segments after which I will edit them and draw them together into what I hope will be one cohesive article.

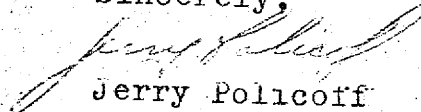

The portion dealing with "Frame-Up" is enclosed, and I would appreciate it if you would read it and send me any comments you might have. You have been honest and candid with me, and in return I have attempted to be diplomatic on the subject of your letter. I have tried to be fair to both you and Mr. Weisberg without distorting any facts.

Please let me know if you feel I have been in any way unfair. I want to avoid embarrassing you any further, and if I can make any changes which will not impair the integrity of the article I will make them.

I am also enclosing two other completed segments so that you will be able to place all of this somewhat into context.

Please don't feel obligated to reply immediately as it will take me several weeks to write, organize and edit the finished article.

Sincerely,

Jerry Pollicoff
