

THE DAILY COUGAR

UNIVERSITY OF HOUSTON

HOUSTON, TEXAS

TUESDAY, MARCH 21, 196

Oswald Killed No One, Says Conspiracy Theorist

By Richard A. Varko
The author of "Forgive My Grief," a book about the assassination of Lee Harvey Oswald, says that Oswald did not kill anyone. He says that he did not know who did the shooting or who was behind the conspiracy.

The author of "Forgive My Grief," a book about the assassination of Lee Harvey Oswald, says that Oswald did not kill anyone. He says that he did not know who did the shooting or who was behind the conspiracy.

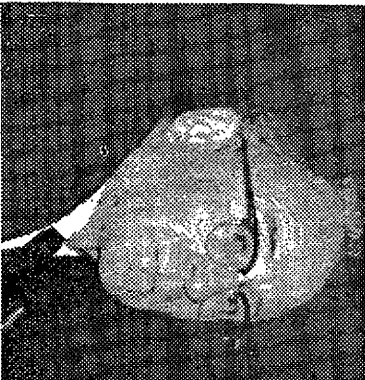

wide open, before her death. The author says that the F.B.I. had distorted evidence by not calling relevant witnesses and by not thoroughly studying the evidence.

During the question and answer period, Jones admitted that he did not know how the Warren Commission and the F. B. I. could have made such mistakes.

"This is something for the people of the United States to decide."

With this no longer shocking statement, Penn Jones, Jr., editor of the Middlesexian Tex. Mirror, stated his "conspiracy theory" before about 75 people in the Houston Room of the University Center Sunday night.

With this no longer shocking statement, Penn Jones, Jr., editor of the Middlesexian Tex. Mirror, stated his "conspiracy theory" before about 75 people in the Houston Room of the University Center Sunday night.

JONES

Among the deceased he lists Jack Ruby, columnist Dorothy Kilgallon, David Ferris and Earlene Roberts, Oswald's landlady.

Miss Kilgallon, according to Jones, had a private conference with Jack Ruby and was on her way to New Orleans to "crack the case."

Among the deceased he lists Jack Ruby, columnist Dorothy Kilgallon, David Ferris and Earlene Roberts, Oswald's landlady.