Helpern Accuses Aide of Trying To Discredit Him by Deception

Chief Medical Examiner, ac-collapsed of a heart attack on cused one of his deputies yes-disclosed the cremation of the terday of giving misleading in-body of a baby that according Helpern and obtain his job.

who will retire on Dec. 31 after who will retire on Dec. of arter 20 years in his post, asserted in a televised interview that the source of recent articles in "I have not been the source of the press". The New York Times involving the recent stories in the press. his office and other city agen-cies was Dr. Michael Baden, one of five deputy chief med-of Mr. Gutterman's family in a the source for the articles.

put me on the shelf and to insert young Sir Galahad into editor of The Times, is-the position." Sir Galahad was intended as an ironic reference porter, M. A. Farber, gathered to Dr. Baden. Dr. Helpern said his information for the articles he would not recommend Dr. from numerous sources, both Baden as his successor.

The Chief Medical Examiner

has published several articles speak for themselves. None of these stories were called to the iner's office and other public attention of The Times by Dr. agencies, including a report that the Medical Examiner's office had severed the head of an unidentified woman who was believed to have drowned, buried her body in a potter's field without performing an autopsy and discovered only by chance later that the head contained a bullet.

A subsequent article reported the failure of city agencies to notify a family of the death of a member of the family,

Dr. Milton Helpern, the city's George K. Gutterman, who had formation about morgue cases in an attempt to discredit Dr. takenly released to a funeral The Chief Medical Examiner, home by the Medical Examiner, iner's office.

suit against the city, said Dr. Dr. Baden denied that he was Helpern's accusations were "un-Dr. Helpern also charged bers were the sources for the that there was a campaign "to articles on Mr. Gutterman.

Arthur Gelb, metropolitan inside and outside city agencies.

"The stories, involving the is appointed by the Mayor from Medical Examiner's office as among the three top qualifiers well as other agencies, were on a Civil Service examination meticulously researched over a In recent weeks The Times period of weeks, and the facts