Recent Cartoon Called 'Splendid'

I should like to congratulate the Post-Gazette for the splendid cartoon by Hungerford on the editorial page on July 19. This depicted a puzzled policeman pondering recent Supreme Court decisions regarding the rights of suspected criminals. The right to a fair trial by jury must be preserved but so must law and order and respect for both.

With a "born to raise hell" philosophy rampant across the land, have recent Supreme Court decisions really contributed to an ordered society? One begins to wonder if the extreme critics of the Warren Court may not have quite a few valid points to their argument.
