

UCLA DAILY BRUIN

Neil Reichline, Editor-in-chief

Vol. LXX No. 1

Thursday, January 5, 1967

Published Monday through Friday during the school year by the Communications Board of the Associated Students of UCLA, 308 Westwood Plaza, Los Angeles 24, California. Entered as second-class matter April 19, 1945 at the post office of Los Angeles, under the act of March 3, 1897. Copyright 1966.

Represented nationally by National Educational Advertising Service, New York, New York.

Member of Associated Press, United States Student Press Assn. and Associated Collegiate Press.

Managing Editor Brian Weiss
City Editor Allan Mann
Editorial Directors Howard Clyman, Dennis Littrell, Mayer Resnick
Sports Editor Larry Rubin
News Editor Stephana Roth
Copy Editor Willa Mackzum
Spectra Editor Mike Rogozen
Intro Editors Rob Ross, Digby Diehl
Associate City Editors Judi Bronstein, Roz Davis, Larry May
Senior Staff Writers Donna Grace, Ann Hasegawa, Buff McDannel, Diana Selk, Pam Sellers, Dave Valeska, Steve Weinberg, Neal White.

'The case for three assassins'

A principal reason for devoting the first 14 pages of the Daily Bruin to "The Case for Three Assassins" is the fact that three people closely involved with that article, including the author David Lifton, are associated with UCLA.

Lifton became interested in the validity of the Warren Commission's conclusions in the spring of 1965 while a graduate student in the UCLA engineering school. He spent six weeks this summer on the staff of Ramparts magazine. An article by Lifton titled "The Warren Commission on Trial" appeared in the Daily Bruin Oct. 26, 1966.

Wesley J. Liebeler, acting professor in the UCLA law school, was a council on the Warren Commission and is quoted extensively in today's article. Liebeler will debate Mark Lane, controversial author of "Rush to Judgment," Jan. 25 on campus. (Save this issue!)

R. A. J. Riddle, assistant professor of physics here, is quoted in part II of the article. He applies his knowledge in physics to important problems of the assassination.

David Welsh, who shares the by-line with Lifton, is news editor of Ramparts and is the re-write man on this article.