Dear Dr Shaw,

I am pleased to enclose the third and last changes which have to be made before you begin composition. These corrections result from the citation-by-citation check. I hope that no serious inaccuracies remain, but I suspect that some inevitably will be found.

As you will see from the attached notes, I retyped some pages and it is only necessary to substitute them for the corresponding pages in the master copy.

The second set of corrections unfortunately will require that someone correct the existing pages in the master copy by making the insertions or the deletions indicated in red on the thermofax copies. I apologize for troubling you with this.

Now that these final chores are finished, I hope that the composition can go forward in accordance with your original target date. If you have a chance, please let me know if the expanded name index is satisfactory, and if the corrections specified on the enclosed thermofax sheets can be made.

With thanks and kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Sylvia Meagher
