Dear Mr. Sorensen,

I am not going to reply to your letter of the 15th because it would take many pages but neither am I going to make a secret of the great pleasure it gave me, on several different levels. You included substance for the mind, substance for the ego in the form of generous and greatly appreciated compliments, and delight in the form of a very individual wittiness.

When M. S. Arnoni returns from a trip abroad and if you don't object I intend to allow him to read your letter, which I know he will enjoy as much as I did. I surmise that he will then ask me, how come a guy with such powers of observation and analysis and such writing ability doesn't write something for TMO and not only for the pleasure of a few selected readers? If so, I will refer him to you for an answer.

My warm thanks and regards,

Sincerely yours,
