Mr. G. C. HAGAN, 136 Casalite (BR 6-3071), Garland, Texas, employed as a maintenance man, Dallas Flood Control, 2245 Irving Boulevard, Dallas, Texas, on December 2, 1963 reported the following to SA DAVID H. BARRY as a possible test site for the firing of the rifle in question used by LEE HARVEY OSWALD:

HAGAN described this site as that below the levees of the Trinity River between Hampton Road and Irving Boulevard, Dallas, Texas, that point where the Hampton Road pump station is located. He stated that this site could be called "the open range of Dallas," it so frequently is used for test firing of rifles by hunters and others. HAGAN said that the elevation and trajectory as OSWALD had found at the Texas School Book Depository building could be simulated by firing from the levee to the river bottom. He stated that the area is strewn with shell cases as a result of the firing by numerous individuals.
