

27 March 1970

Mr. Greg Olds, Editor
The Texas Observer
504 West 24 Street
Austin 78705

Dear Mr. Olds,

Because of the post office strike, your letter of the 18th arrived only today. I am delighted that, as I infer, you are able to use the article I sent. By all means, please feel free to change "and" to "about" and to make any minor editorial changes in this or future manuscripts that seem desirable.

When the article appears, I hope it will come to the attention of the surviving members of the Warren Commission, its lawyers, and its apologists. I hope it will be possible for me to receive several copies, which I will share with David Lifton, who made the Document Addendum available in print and wrote the introduction. (If you want to send him a copy directly, his address is 11818 $\frac{1}{2}$ Dorothy Street, Los Angeles, Calif. 90049.)

Incidentally, Fred Newcomb sent me a copy of his letter to you of 2 March, in which he mentions the back issues you had sent him and especially the 11/29/63 issue. As I have never had a chance to see The Texas Observer, I should be grateful for any back issues dealing with the assassination that you feel able to spare.

Best regards,

Sincerely yours,

Sylvia Meagher

P.S. Please disregard this postscript if it causes any difficulties, but I will just mention that I am anxious, for tax purposes, to maintain my status as a free-lance writer (which enables me to deduct from other income some of the expenses connected with my work on the assassination). If I could receive a token payment for any articles you use, it would be helpful. But if this is not convenient, please don't give it a thought.
