Mr. Arthur A. Cohen Vice President and Editor-in-Chief Holt, Rinehart and Winston, Inc. 283 Medison Ave. New York, N.Y. 10017

There are several inaccuracies in your brochure amounting Mark Lane's book I respectfully call to your attention with the request that you porrect than in the printed book.

In Mr. Lane's atatoment he says of the FEI report that he is the first to quote it. He implies he is the first to do so in print. Both ere incorrect. You will find it on page 185 of my privately-printed book WHITEMASH: THE REPORT ON THE WAPPEN PEPORT. This book was completed in mid-February 1965. The first, limited edition appeared on! was copyrighted in August of that year and the revised edition was in the hands of the printer in April, the month Mr. Lane claims that he "discovered" that the report had been declassified.

Actually, no one was first to quote this report, for it was "leaked" to the press. My receipt for photocopying is dated the mouth before Fr. Lene's "discovery", my book more than a year earlier. And I was not the one who "discovered" the report had been declassified.

Eugh Trever-Roper's statement that Mr. Lane is 'the" sovocate is likewise not correct. His exact words at the end of his introduction ere,"...the advocate for the other side must be heard. That advocate is Mr. Lane." Without doubt Mr. Lane is and advocate for "the other side", although I think it is loss than precise to suggest the other side is but a believe defense of Cawald. Nor do I believe Mr. Lane should suffer because he was the one who received an income from his advocacy, the one who had a staff and committee working for him. He, like I am, is but one smong a number. I prefer to believe the motivation of most of us is broader than the defense of the murdered accused, that it is the defense of the democratic society.

May I also suggest an unfairness I do not believe the eminent historian intends in singling out the Chairman, "who never failed" to at and the meetings of the Commission and saying "It is clear the bulk of the work fall upon the Chairman"? This points the finger of blame and responsibility on the Chairman, where in my belief at least it should not point, and is inaccurate in that the "bulk of the work" fall on the staff.

If one may invoke history against a historian, I say history will fault his. Travor-Roper for singling out the Commission and its chairman and virtually ignoring the staff, which both traditionally and historically always does "the bulk of the work" in such inquiries.

I do hope you will find it possible to say otherwise in the book than you do in its blurb, for this is one of the most serious subjects in our national history. We should be looking for neither heros nor gosts.

Sincerely yours,

I fenet erselfe to inset Ris.
