

Dear Bill,

Neichter

7/23/94

Having seen how I can <sup>e</sup> expand Senator Russell Dissents into a book by using what was butchered out of Case Open I worked on it until the last minute this morning before taking Lil to lunch and for some shopping and forgot all the letters I had ready to mail. Either enclosed or already sent is the newest on ~~Case~~ Never Again!

We stopped off at the excellent second-hand bookstore to get a few for us and to get what of Howard Fast they have that the Wrones do not have. I've given them some and they are hooked. I think Dave agrees with me that he has written more and better about American history to popularize it and more in keeping with the traditions than anyone.

And in a few minutes I'm going to take in a late afternoon telecast of an Orioles game, one of the few I've been able to see this year. I'll be abed before it is ended. hahss

I found the clipping about the assassinated Mexican candidate's wife to be quite interesting. Seem like he would have been a good one and that she is a fine, understanding and caring person. It would be exceptional and interesting if she were to run. hahss

Rusher in complaining about inaccurac<sup>y</sup> where there was none disclose how those people get their support and misinform at the same time. His not only was not convicted of espionage, he was not charged with it. He was charged with, framed on and convicted of perjury.

And that right-wing nut who said the Fairness Doctrine violated the First Amendment-it does 't and was not ever found to by the courts. And we had it for decades. Edding it is what inflicts the Limbughers of all rotundities (excpet in the mind) on us. Almost all of the right, most extreme, because the advertisers prefer that so the stations do. Not that many would not on their own. Or do not.

60 years ago when I read it often the WSJ was a respectable conservative paper. Today it is largely a propaganda sheet. From what you have been sending and what I've seen from elsewhere. In those days when it did a special story they were solid and dependable, not propaganda.

Glad you'll be back on the will soon.

I have no <sup>clear</sup> ~~case~~ recollection of having seen that Cooper to Belin letter but probably did a different copy, with his handwritten addition. It represents his lack of understanding of the Commission's own work and record and he says what he knows as a lawyer does not mean what he says it to mean, that if no rifle or shells were found there could not have been another shooter....The Members were almost all too busy to do their jobs.

"Gotten" is a word, here, too. I'd thought your office was keeping you busy. Sorry it was the not unexpected death.

Why do you not ask why what you said about Case Open was removed- and challenge Posner, who is on it and has threatened libel on it, and his supporters to respond to it. It will be interesting if he has threatened them over it, Compuserve, that is. Davison is not worth the time. Stupid book that was accepted because it agree with the fictions.

If Cooper had known the Commission evidence, including testimony, he<sup>d</sup> have known there is solid basis for a grassy knoll gunman, by the way. And the part of the Report most widely read is its Summary. The AP used it as its main story. Cooper himself did not understand it because it says what he did not agree to. If he read it.

We've not heard from Heroldt since his visit when he left and interesting and well-framed work of art for which I've been asked for copies. The Barbehenns took it to Baltimore to get some made.

The retyping of Inside seems to have slowed down but I expect to see that young woman today with more of it, to pick more of it up and with the next chapters some corrections.

I'm adding to it, I think four chapters of which three are completed and the fourth started and interrupted. It has grown. Chapter 40 is the last one!

We do hope you and Petsy can get here. I think Southwest now flies to Baltimore if I remember the TV ads I usually pay no attention to.

Thanks and our best,

Harold
