Dear Bill,

Your wife was wonderfully helpful in the book that by now has grown rather large. I hope that if you have not yet explored the Cooper archive you might be able to get a record or records by a telephoned request to its archivist.

I have from the Russell archive at the University of Georgia confirmation of our relationship and of our agreement that the single-bullet theory was impossible.

I understand that Cooper believed as Russell did and that Boggs was not as firm on his agreement with them.

It is my hope that Cooper left some record of this, of his disagreement with the single-bullet theory, and perhaps of his participation in the 9/16/64 executive session at which Russell at least expressed his disbelief.

With some of these archives those in charge of the deposits cooperate on telephone requests they consider responsible or from those they have reason to believe are responsible. So, if you are not too busy, would you please request of the custodian of the Cooper archive any records relating to his attitude toward the single-bullet theory and any records he may have left relating to his signing of the report or the belief he had when he signed it?

What I have will be, I am confident, a very powerful work if it can get any attention at all. I believe it will be even more so if I can include what Cooper may have left in his records relating in any way to this.

I will have the chapter in which this would be completed by the time you get this letter but it can be inserted easily. A dear friend, Historian Dave Wrone, is retyping my rough draft on his computer and that permits easy insertion.

I hope you can find the time. May thanks again to you and your wife,

sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
