

Dear Bill,

3/24/94

The clippings with your 3/21 ~~are~~ are interesting. When Lil reads them I'll send them to Ginocchio. I'm a bit amused at the WSJ puffing up the Moonie rag in Washington. What it does not say is that to this moment it appears to be all smoke, no Clinton fire. The ~~HOPE~~ GOPs are misusing it to make it difficult for the government to function while they make cheap points on suspicion only. When the Clinton's lost money on the deal there can't be much to any of it. I've stopped reading any of those stories. It is indecent to do with no more than innuendo and suspicion what the Moonie sheet and the GOPs are doing. Dole I suppose is so instinctively dirty that it comes ~~naturally~~ naturally for him. But among decent conservatives it tars the GOP.

Which, by the way, did prepare the budgets that quadrupled our national debt to the point where what you correctly ^{say} needs being done cannot be because there is ~~no~~ way for meetings those necessary costs.

I hope that some people down there start suing the hell out of each other. I should explain: those that should have done it and haven't, so you can get in on some of it.

While I think the advice you say you give younger people is good, to get government jobs, right now they are trying to cushion the firing of a large number of federal workers who believe they had lifetime jobs.

I imagine sole practitioners are having a tough time because they lack the retainers the firms get that tide them over when business is scanty.

Reagan and Bush ^{spent} the money raised by taxes for road and bridge work on other things instead and now they are in terrible shape with no means of paying for what needs to be done. Their ^{cap to} ~~conspect~~ were not conservative—they were ^{crazy} crazy. But they have people believing them and not seeing the consequences. And ~~remain~~ demanding more for less, too.

I got some recently disclosed HSCA stuff the meaning of which seems to have been lost on others, including the fine man who gave them to me. I've written a too-long Afterword on them for NEVER AGAIN! Important stuff. I have a student who can do some typing, beginning, I hope day after tomorrow.

Hope all is well with both of you. I think of you first thing with that citrus. I've gotten to where I can peel the Temples how without making a mess, thin-skinned as they are. K! I'm glad they section easily. Easier eating!

Thanks and out best,

Harold
