Dear Harold:

This letter is mailed with the other of the same date. Still did not get WWII.

I can't say I have ever seen any evidence of mail tampering, but I have received some letters from you that seem to have a lot of tape on them. Scotch type tape. Assume you put it on, I assume this is your style. In past, not on recent letter.

Your letter of 4-11-94 to Jeffrey, Confidential, disturbs me. Here are my thoughts.

Look at the base of the TV, see if the dust has been disturbed around the base. In addition, look at the screws that hold the back of the TV on. Assuming the TV has never been repaired, the screws should not have any scratches or slip marks on them. See if the dust has been disturbed around the screws. Should be apparent several weeks after opening. Mechanics and electricians, even amateurs such as me, can usually tell if a unit has been repaired this way.

Most modern TVs are always on, which is easier on the circuits and make them turn on faster. Bug should show up on a circuit board, perhaps on the power supply board. Probably on wrong side of board, easy to find.

Old trick is to put Scotch tape on door when you leave. If it has been disturbed, you know. I used to have to be careful in my union busting days as corporate counsel. Threatened Betsy. They never had the ambition to come to Louisville to bother me, though.

We don't actually have a governor in jail, but the Feds are giving it their best shot.

One thing you probably know is that with your recent reemergence in the public eye, Unsolved Mysteries, and the very popular Men Who Killed Kennedy, you again have a high public profile. Disturbs some people. Sort of reminds me of the beginning of Whitewash II.

I used to leave copies of anti union articles on my desk at work, because I knew people looked at stuff on my desk. SOB stole a nice blowup of an article about my dad, just disappeared one day.

We had a problem with big mouth executives, we would have a confidential meeting and the truth would beat me back to the warehouse. I used to plant unusual phrases on individuals, it was amazing how they would get back to me. When my father and I were prematurely retired, the exact rumor got to me before it was even finalized. Except for the part about how a local law firm was going to hire me! I think working in corporate America is good training for future spies.

My dad had a phone number one digit different than a competitor. One day, he picked up a phone and listened to a clear conversation of the other guy. Used it to beat him out of the deal. No apparent reason, but it happened! We have never trusted the phones after that.

Try the things I mentioned, and see if they do any good. Makes me realize the serious nature of your work.

Sincerely,

Bill
