

Dear Bill,

2/14/95

By the time we returned from three medical appointments followed by lunch and some last-minute shopping with another storm predicted for tomorrow there is little time for my sudden and to-be-rushed main project and not enough time before supper to do the mail. I'll be enclosing a little more on the dumping of the first half of the page proofs of NEVER AGAIN! on me yesterday, the second half due in two weeks. They broke their word, edited it again, made careless mistakes in the first few pages that I've had time to look at, and I can't correct in any way that will change any page! The first one took several hours. I may, if I have to take a break from it, write more about this. Right now I'm waiting for the right person in the doctor's office to take the phone and tell me the amount of coumadin I was to have taken five hours earlier!

On those WW II documentaries, if your father was up from under enough he probably learned and told you that the best fighters were the civilian <sup>air</sup>raffees, regardless of the kind of men they were.

Clinton made the Limbaghers by not restituting the Fairness Doctrine.... Dave says that in his conservative area the papers are full of protests over the Gingers' attempt to wipe public broadcasting out.... To the best of my knowledge Newman associates close to exclusively with the theorists, most of whom are nutty.... DeLoach told the truth for ~~once~~ once. It was well known that Hoover resisted computerizing. And DeL may well have been the one of influence in changing H's mind. .... And I <sup>am</sup> inclined to believe that Oswald may well have taken the bus. The contrary evidence is at best poor and almost all seriously faulted when it was not even cross-examined. (Except by me and I think Meagher.) ... I think the real <sup>ad</sup> reason Bush picked ~~A~~ Quayle is defense against impeachment. Remember those he pardoned? And what they could have said about him? And some did in their notes? ... I hope you are right about the next presidential election because it looks as I've been saying that the Gingers are out to make basic changes in the kind of society we are, raping the Constitution along the way.

Excuse the haste,

Hardy

If it is not clear, can you imagine the Congress doing anything that would have made Quayle president?

The Temple orange look beautiful