1. Your letter of 24 June was forwarded to this office for action.
2. The Air Force does not conduct general, service-wide searches of records, as requested in your letter. A Privacy Act request must be directed by the requester to the general category of records systems the requester believes pertinent. All systems of record maintained by the Air Force are listed annually in the Federal Register.

These notices of record systems describe what type of information each system covers, as well as the records custodian to whom a Privacy Act request should be addressed.

3. This office did contact the claims department of The Judge Advocate General's office. Claim files from this office are occasionally transferred there. The result was the same as for the search of the files of this office - no records pertaining to you or your claim against the Air Force.
