

Is Hitler Financed by America's Defense Program?

CLICK EXPOSES THE WAY U. S. DOLLARS FLOW INTO THE NAZI WAR TREASURY

On almost every airplane, from the tiniest pursuit ship to the giant Flying Fortresses (right), on torpedo boats— even on the houses built for the men who forge America's arms—Hitler gets a kickback.

The Nazi bombs that pulverized Coventry and Birmingham, the German tanks that rolled into the Low Countries and France, might have well been labelled "Made in U. S. A." because American dollars helped pay for them.

During the last World War thousands of Allied soldiers were mowed down by shells made in their homelands and sold to the Kaiser by unscrupulous munitions makers. But it wasn't until 1935 that the Nye Munitions Committee of the U. S. Senate exposed this. This time we are supplying Hitler with the one thing he needs more than munitions: American money.

The story of how CLICK discovered one of the big leaks in the dam this Democracy is erecting against the Nazi tidal wave is as fantastic as any detective thriller ever written. On February 17th, a Mr. John F. Bergin appeared at our Philadelphia offices. Nervously, he handed us his card, on which appeared the name "Rohm & Haas Co."

"We understand you believe we have Nazi connections and are investigating us," he said. "We've even been investigated by the FBI and given a clean bill of health."

The knowledge that the FBI never releases such information led us into our own investigation.

We discovered that Rohm & Haas is a chemical firm, making several products important to warfare. Among these are leather tanning compounds, adhesives, and the Plexiglas that goes into the noses of our bombers. We discovered that Rohm & Haas of Philadelphia is related to Rohm & Haas of Germany; that Rohm & Haas is linked with the infamous I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany— which as far back as 1934 was spending $25,000 a year for Nazi propaganda in America; that the mysterious Mr. Bergin has acted as attorney for both Rohm & Haas and I. G. Farben in at least one Hitler-approved patent deal; and that American dollars flow from Rohm & Haas, U. S. A. to Rohm & Haas, Germany. But that's not all we discovered!

WHENEVER ONE OF THESE GERMAN-INVENTED PLASTIC NOSES GOES ON A U. S. BOMBER . . .

...HITLER GETS A CUT

THE NAZIS CASH IN ON EVERY ONE OF these Plexiglas bomber noses made by Rohm & Haas Co. in its Bristol, Pa., plant. Profits on Plexiglas sales account for a large part of the royalties Rohm & Haas send to Germany.

1. The Nazi chemical empire's deals in the U. S. are revealed in the official patent assignment book in Washington. Note that J. F. Bergin appears as attorney for both I. G. Farben and Rohm & Haas of Philadelphia. On the surface, there is no significance in the transfer of a leather tanning patent from one firm to another. It is only when you realize that I. G. Farben—a heavy supporter of Hitler even before 1933—controls 40% of Germany's vast chemical empire that the link strikes home. Of equal importance is the revelation that I. G. Farben evidenced such complete trust in the Rohm & Haas Co. attorney, J. F. Bergin, that they retained him to act as their American attorney in this deal. It happens that in I. G. Farben the Nazis find two of the vital elements of modern total warfare—chemicals and money. Deprive a modern army of its chemicals and its gold for just one day and you seal its doom. Deals like this one help I. G. Farben keep going, keep Hitler in the cash it takes to run a streamlined war, as well as the cash needed to spread Nazi propaganda in this country. In I. G. Farben, Hitler has one more bulwark to rely upon.

2. Nazis control Plexiglas. To CLICK's investigator, a Rohm & Haas Co. official, S. C. Kelton, admitted that for every ounce of Plexiglas that goes into American military planes a royalty is paid to Rohm & Haas Aktiengesellschaft (or A. G.) of Germany, the parent corporation of Rohm & Haas Co. and the originators of Plexiglas. Like all German corporations, Rohm & Haas A. G.* must be pro-Nazi if it is to remain in business. And this firm is very much in business—Nazi business. This photo of a Plexiglas bridal crown was proudly released by official Nazi war propaganda bureaus in June, 1940, and then mailed to all of the leading papers in America.

* In reading on from here, please note that Rohm & Haas A.G. is the German parent firm, while Rohm & Haas Co. is the American company.

3. The German origin of Plexiglas is clearly evident in this official government document. Assigned by the German inventor to Rohm & Haas A. G. for 10 marks in 1929, the patent was subsequently reassigned to Rohm & Haas Co. of Philadelphia. The inventor assigned only the U. S. rights to Rohm & Haas A.G. in this paper, still the U. S. Rohm & Haas Co. sells Plexiglas to the entire Western Hemisphere. Investigators suspect that this may be the result of a secret licensing agreement.

ROHM & HAAS CO. MAKES PLEXIGLAS BOMBER PARTS

WALTHER FUNK

Pudgy-faced Walther Funk was Hitler's economic adviser long before he became Nazi Germany's Economic Minister. When, on October 28, 1939—a month after the war began—Funk declared that economics would play as great a role as Stukas in the conflict, the statesmen of the non-Nazi world sat up and took notice. To many of them it was their first hint that Germany was prepared to fight democracy on the economic front, too.

One of Germany's most potent weapons on this front are the royalties her huge trusts collect from all over the world.

The Rohm & Haas companies in America control over 400 patents, most of them German. About 90% of these German patents were assigned to Rohm & Haas Co. and its subsidiaries after Hitler took power. Six years ago Rohm & Haas Co. made a deal with Rohm & Haas A.G. to "pool" their patents. Company Officer S. C. Kelton admits the Hitler government approved this deal.

These patent assignments and licensing agreements divide world territory with the German corporations. They usually limit Rohm & Haas Co. to the United States. Whether or not these arrangements are violating the U. S. anti-trust laws is something for the Department of Justice to decide. Through these secret licensing agreements more American money reaches the Nazis.

We tried very hard to see Otto Haas, head of Rohm & Haas in the United States. But Haas has always been a hard man to reach. Forty years ago, with the late Otto Rohm, Haas formed a chemical firm in Germany. They made tanning products. Soon Otto Haas arrived in Philadelphia to set up an American branch of the firm. Rohm remained in Germany.

Although Haas became an American citizen, the Government took over Rohm's half-interest in the firm during the first World War and later sold it for $350,000. Within a few years, Haas bought it back for $400,000.

Even before the Government stepped in during the World War, Rohm & Haas Co. was always a closed corporation. None of the standard industrial directories lists its officers. Otto Haas is mentioned in Chemical Who's Who, but a notation reads, "Could not be verified." A U. S. Government official says, "The company deserves a leather medal for secrecy."

German patents have been the backbone of their business from the earliest days of their activity. Within five years of the sale of Rohm's stock, another corporation was established by Otto Haas—the Resinous Products & Chemical Co. Nazi enterprises own 30% of the stock of this Rohm & Haas affiliate, which pays royalties to Hitler corporations.

As we in America prepare our defense against Hitlerism, we should bear in mind what Nazi Economics Minister Walther Funk wrote in October, 1939: "Modern war is only partially won by weapons. Facing totalitarian attack, we have arranged totalitarian defense." Even if sent unwillingly, American dollars transmitted to Hitler are bulwarks of his "totalitarian defense."

CLICK feels that something must be done now about the American stream of contributions to Hitler's war machine. The Army and the manufacturers who supply it have no normal way of determining which of the companies that deal in military essentials share their defense profits with Hitler. Congress alone has the power to correct this dangerous situation.

WOMAN USE PLEXIGLAS

PLEXIGLAS VIOLIN SOUND SWEET TO EARS

GOLDFISH LOOK BETTER IN PLEXIGLAS FISHBOWL

WHETHER IN BOMBERS OR GLASS LADIES, Plexiglas is still one of the steadiest sources of revenue the Nazi war chest has in America. The American anxiousness to adopt any new commodity has opened many doors to this new transparent plastic. The thousands of World's Fair visitors who first became aware of Plexiglas when they stumbled across the startling Plexiglas lady, similar to the fishbowl (above), will be even more surprised to realize how much Plexiglas is already figuring in their daily lives. In one of a hundred different usages and forms, Plexiglas has been with them for several years. It might be in the dial of their auto radios, the frames of their new hairbrushes, in their new shatterproof eye-glasses, or in the unique new signs in their store windows. No matter where they see it, it is still piling up royalties for Nazi firms. Today, the great bulk of Plexiglas royalties comes from American defense orders.
