E. Howard Hunt, in Give Us This Day, (1973) ^{calls} ~~refers to~~ Phillips
'Knight', which was Richard Helms' code name in CIA.

P 251

Helms and Hunt met in 1956....Hunt conceived of Helms as a friend...~~xxxx~~ admired him openly, and more than once called on him for help. In his memoirs of the Bay of Pigs operation Hunt gave Helms' code name inside the CIA - 'Knight' - to David Phillips. When Phillips wrote his memoirs he conceded that he was the man Hunt called Knight, and commented, 'Bestowin the name of Knight was the ultimate accolade - people who have worked in CIA will recall that pseudonym belonged to one of the Agency's most senior officers, a man Hunt idolized.'
