

7/25/42

was near the office of classification of civilian employees. Somebody has been giving you some bad addresses (incidentally, they raised hell, but that's all right). Here is a report on what I was able to accomplish this morning and this afternoon. I was able to get some of the addresses you gave me, but I would, in all probability, have been able to get more if I had more time. I was able to get the answers to all the queries in your letter of 7/23/42 in the mail, because I was wrong when I said they close down at 1 on Saturdays. If I can I'll send you the approximate dates of the articles. The pamphlet "Military Service" is in the mail to you. I'm told there is but one form for the Army Specialists Corps. I'm told there is but one form for entering (enclosed) and other forms are filled out, if needed, after the "Military Service" is received. I spoke to West about the "Military Service" and he said it was in the mail. Two copies are in the mail to you. I finally got the address of the "Military Service" and he took care of it. This is a situation similar to the Navy situation. I'm sending Harmon what I can find. I'm not hopeful he'll get in. I suggested that it would be a good idea to send a copy of his ms to the War Relocation Authority, Public Relations Office, 712 Maritime Building, Wash., D.C. They will go over it and correct any mistakes and mail it back by the beginning of the day after receipt. Corrections have been made on the material I'm sending him. Army Classification System. Wrong office and wrong building. I have finally located what I believe to be the right place, and I'll check it Monday. This was near the office of classification of civilian employees. Somebody has been giving you some bad addresses (incidentally, they raised hell with the cab expenses).

5/22/75

Here is a report on what I was able to accomplish this morning and this cab expenses).

there, is a bus station. However, I think I was located in the same place on the western side of town and will answer there Monday at 84/28/7 in letter to you.

Schubert gave me the approximate dates of the Post articles. If I can I'll pick them up later tonight, if that section of the paper is open. Otherwise I'll do it Monday.

Your query re West Point. I spoke to ~~the~~^{some} about it. After reading Y's note to you he said as follows: there is no "National Army" or "IMOR" Army of the United States; the US comprises the Regular Army and the former National Guard which, when federalized, became part of the AUS, members of the organized reserve, and a number of other units. The Air Corps Recruitment Admission is by appointment, not application. We sent her a separate letter covering this this morning. Ignore the error message on the bottom of the material.

you sent me, which I return herewith. This translation appears above.

When I saw Rissy Moore yesterday, she suggested I go to get something on.

lighter than air, which is not heavy and not for anything. June 20th 1883 Hancock at Navy Aeronautics this morning and it was corrected by her, for you. if she has anything else I shall send it to you. This anteq. is under revision, and she suggested you keep in touch with the Navy people at Church St. to keep yourself posted? and have been made

I'll probably have to go out to Gravelly Point Monday or Tuesday, so please send me any aviation queries you have at the moment. Thus I might be able to save you some dough, because a round trip will cost at least two bucks by cab. I realize you might not be able to send them now, but I thought I'd make the recommendation on the chance you could. I don't want to waste any dough for you.

I think ~~in~~ I now have good contacts for the rest of the things you want, and with more breaks than we've had the past few days, we might be able to get this all cleaned up earlier than the end of next week.

~~XX~~

Yours

Harold Weisberg.

*Don't you women's navy stuff
not endorse this am*