Dear McKenzie:

You haven't heard from me because I expected to hear from you all week. You will probably recall that when I spoke to you a week ago you said that you would undoubtedly be in Washington the past week. Also, I expected the letter you said you would write me last Monday.

I have been working on the Dies Committee and Smith Committee and I think that I can give you more than you can possibly want on both of these with an ample amount of material that seems never to have been used. In fact, I am rather pleased with the way the Smith Committee stuff is shaping up.

I can send you this part of the stuff this week if you want it. I am just wondering if you still feel as you did when I spoke to you in view of the fact that I have had no confirmation from you. Do you expect to be down here this coming week? I would appreciate it if you would let me know because I may find it necessary to leave town for a few days.

In the course of the work I have been doing and because of the amount of work there has been and will be, I have been wondering if the amount of money we discussed will be sufficient. I have also been wondering about your offer of a retainer for query work and particularly whether you still mean it.

Let's get squared away, huh?

Best regards,

Harold Weisberg
