Dear Mr. Brodie,

Following our talk Friday morning I have thought about your offer and have decided to accept it.

However, I still have a feeling that after I have learned what you want and what you do not want the conscientious discharge of this job may take more time than you estimate. In this event, after enough time has elapsed to make it clear, we can discuss the $25.00 a week figure again.

Will you please send me a file of copies to date, so I can go over them? Also, I'd appreciate a list of the people in the various offices who have been helpful to you.

I hope this arrangement will prove to be satisfactory to both of us.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg
