Dear Mr. Wyle,

Thanks for your letter of the 29th.

My purpose in writing you this note is to tell you that I'll have to be out of Washington for about 5 days beginning this Thursday and to hope that it will not be on one of these days that you'll be coming here. However, if you should have to come during the time I won't be here and will have time to stop off between trains, I'm going to be in Wilmington, Del., and could come down to the station, where we could talk for the 45 minutes or the hour between the train you'll be on and the next one. If this is the case you can wire me at 122 Lincoln St., or phone at 3-2845, in Wilmington, of course.

It is my expectation that I'll be back in Washington on the 13th or 14th, but I'll definitely be back before the morning of the 15th, because of gas rationing.

I'm looking forward to seeing you for several reasons, one immediate. Someone else is interested in one of the things I told you about.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Weisberg
