Mr. Frank Hall Fraysur,
Editor, Spot
1501 Broadway
New York, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Fraysur,

Thank you for your letter of the first. I haven't had a chance to answer it sooner because I was out of town and now, on my return, I'm jammed up a bit with several stories and close deadlines.

You are probably right when you say full-time representation here won't justify the cost. That has been the experience of several other magazines for which I have worked. In these cases we decided upon something like what you suggested might be done. We agreed on a daily rate on work less than a story, and, of course, I was paid for the stories I did, ghosted or arranged for. In addition to this, actual expenses, which vary from week to week but never amount to very much.

I'm sorry I have so many commitments at the moment because they make it impossible for me to send you any ideas and summaries. However, I plan to be up your way within the next two weeks, and maybe we can get together then. I'll write you in advance as soon as I know my schedule. I hope you'll be free for a little while at that time.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
