(Elitor's Note: All the world wants to know what went on in the twisted mind of Los Ocwald, the turnecat accused of assessinating President Kenzedy. Here is the first story of how Oswald tried to picture life in Russia . . . as he told it to a public stenographer and as she told it to PRESS Reporter

"Dy CAROLINE HAMILTON, Press Staff Writer

"Lee Cowald wanted the world to think he'd gone to Russia 'on a job' for the State Dept.

"He left that impression with Miss Pauline V. Bates, public stanographer in the Durk Burnett Bldg.

"Es did it by evasiveness.

"When the State Dept. granted my vici,' Ice Oswald told her, 'they stipulated they could not stand bohind no in any way.

"Coweld went to see Miss Dates June 18, 1952. He had in his hand a manile envelope full of notes condouning and criticizing life in Russia. Lee Oswald had found Soviet Russia no Utopia.

"Or so he said.

"It was shortly after 11 A.M. when he walked into her office, a pale man, loan almost to gauataess, with eyes that looked boyond her as he talked.

"To had on a dark, lightweight, zip-up, weist-length jacket, a white T-shirt and dark slacks - Miss Bates never saw him in anything clse.

"'I saw your name in the phone book,' he said. 'Can you do some typing for ma?' " "What?"

" "Notes I made in Russia of conditions there."

"Miss Eates agreed. To told her his name Loo Oswald - she dida't recognize it then. And gave her a phone number where he could be reached, montioned he was living with his brother.

"Whore?' she asked. .

"'In Arlington Heights,' he said.

"In his manila envelope Oswald had several sheaves of papers, stapled to-Esther in poquences on different citics of Russia. The first was Minek. The Socord Micy. The papers were all sizes and all chopes, some chips like strips pulled from envelopes, some full sheets, some heavy brown wrapping paper.

"The acces were handwritten is pen and pencil and typed. 'I had a portable typewriter,' Could explained, 'and my wife used to muffle the sound when I typed at night.'

"He hored to get a Fort Worth engineer to help him publish a book from . the moles. Miss Dates is not sure today who.

"Ence none, like the Russian names that abounded in the well-written, gripping marrative, has gone from her memory. Hiss Dates just typed as he spollel. 'The names didn't sound like memors even, they were so unfamilier,' she commented.

"Re nover allowed her to remain alone with his notes. He brought them when he came, took them when he loft. And he made sure he had all typed copy, all carbons.

"During the three days he sat, for hours at a time, in her office while she typed from his notes, Lee Could told her little about himself.

"Es said he had 'just gotten back' after two years and 11 months in Russia where he worked in a fuctory at Kinsk. Es told her he was more than ready to roturn to the U.S. when his two-year visa expired but that he had married a Eussian girl.

"The Russians told him to go shead back to the U. S. and they'd send his wire later. 'But I knew I'd never see her sgain if I did ... so I stayed,' Ios Jourid said.

"Iventually, he'd raised so much fuss ... he said ... they granted permission for him and his wife to leave Russia. Miss Bates thinks he told her they came across the Austrian corder.

"Is counded very brave in his fight for his wife.

"'Lee,' she asked, 'aren't you afraid her relatives might be in danger?'

"'Ho,' he told her. She thinks he said his wife was an orphan whose relatives were killed in the war.

"'Doos she like America?'

"'Yes,' he answered, 'She is impressed with the skyserepers, cars, food, clothes, the happy expressions on people's faces, likes TV.'

"Then he probably came as close to a chile as he ever did in her precence. The food here was pleatiful and rich and she over-ate.

"'We both did,' he almost smiled. Miss Eates' impression: Lee Oswald was very foul of his wife.

"Los Cavald sold he had taken a course in elementary Russian, applied for a visa after he get out of the Arrives. To said he could speak Russian better than his wife could speak English. But she enjoyed U.S. TY.

"Mucs Dates, who has had offices in the Dark Durnstt Bldg. for 10 years, typed for Cowald by the hour. He was in her office from shortly after 11 to 12:05 y.m., again from 1:30 to 2 p.m. on June 18. The ment day he was there from 9 a.m. to 11:15, her work sheets show. He was back in the aftermean when she worked on his typing from 3 to 3:25 p.m.

"On June 20 he came in soon after 10 e.m. 'That last day he was worried or searcd.' Miss Bates said. 'He was fidgety, up and down, looking over my shoulder, wondering at what point I was in typing the manuscript.' She was typing about Kiev.

"Ho was there the rest of the morning, part of the afternoon. When she finished the 10th page of typing -- single line -- he stopped her.

"'Ten dollars is all I've got,' he said. She was about a third through his hard-to-decipher notes. 'I'll finish it for you, Lee, and you can pay me when you get some money,' she offered, for Miss Butes was caught up in the bitter realism of the factual account.

"1%,' he said, pulled a $10 bill from his front pocket, handed it to her and welled out. After that she saw him twice on downtown streets but he meither spoke nor modded.

What does Miss Bates remember about the pages she typed?

"'it's jumbled,' she admitted. 'When you are typing you are copying and not reading to remember.' But --

"Conditions in Russia were terrible in his eyes. Several families living in one room. Everyone working, women as well as men, children in nurseries until they were old enough to go to the state school.

"The continual, perpotual pressure of the Communist Party. The spying and the four of 'bugs' -- electronic listening devices. Feeple spoke openly only in parks. He wrote about the May Day parades, carefully arranged. 'You better turn out unless you were really sick.'

"Oswald said he worked in a factory at Minsk for 12 and 14 hours a day on a quota basis. If you did more than your quota, you got a citation -- but it didn't show on your paychock. No coffee breaks. No paid vacations. Just a chocan few get vacations from each factory but even then they were not alone, but under a Party boss. Long lectures on Communism are conducted during lunch.

"The TV carries mothing except the Communist party line but you have to turn it on or someone gets suspicious.

"A few have hidden radios and are enthusiastic over Voice of America. Kare he had mass, towns ... but commented:

"'I'll have to change the manes if my book is published or they will be in real trouble.'

"The food was monotonous. Oswald didn't like it. He ate black bread, potators, occasionally fish. The little meat -- and it wasn't much good even if you got it -- and frosh vegetables were rationed. Milk was hard to buy. He had voluminous notes on the prices of food, but Miss Bates can't remember them.

"Somewhere she remembers something about his earning 60 rubles a month in the factory and that a pair of shoes cost 100 rubles. He readily turned rubles into U. S. dollars when helping her with the notes.

"We reported verbatim conversations with many individuals -- all critical of Russia -- and had manos and times and places. She recalls none of them.

"She recalls a commont that Soviet education is only the Party line -- and that their history began with Leain and Marx.

"In the notes -- as far as she typed -- there was no mention of Lee Oswall's renunciation of his U. S. citizenship.

"Che coat is all you can have in Russia -- and it gets cold there, Lee Oswald wrote. He had traveled some before he went to work in the factory, found travel restricted, reasons required ... and trips cleared through a Party blos.

"Los Cowald computere implied that his permission to leave Russia with his wife come from Khrushchev because 'he is the only person who ever gives permission to leave.' But Oswald never said he had seen Khrushchev himself.

"Es nover said he was a U. S. secret agent either. But he gave that impression.

"And the impression reised questions in Miss Entes' mind: Why would a secret agent have a public stenegrapher type his notes? Why was he short of money? Why couldn't he find a job? Why did he heave the impression he was a secret agent? Why did he watch his notes so carefully?

"She never found out.

"But she thought about it again after Nov. 22. And she still doesn't know."
